CONTRARY TO CONSTITUTION

FEDERAL CONTROL OF INSURANCE IMPOSSIBLE

House Judiciary Committee Will so Report—Question Discussed at Length by Chairman Jenkins of the Committee.

Washington, March 21.—The house committee on judiciary has decided to report to the house that there is no constitutional authority for federal control of insurance or other state corporations other than railroads. The report has been drafted by Chairman Jenkins and is now in the hands of members of the committee for their perusal. It is said the members, with practically no exceptions, concur in the correctness of this conclusion. The report may therefore be taken as the basis of the answer the committee is to make to the house in compliance with instructions of that body.

The report quotes all important court decisions on the questions involved, treats each exhaustively and reduces the whole problem to these two principles: "The supreme court of the United States has declared and has never been shaken or weakened in maintaining, first, that insurance is not commerce and, second, that congress cannot impair the police powers of states."

As to the latter principle, Mr. Jenkins says:

"Let it be said kindly and not offensively that it is a monstrous doctrine, subversive of our dual system of government, to even suggest, after the distribution of these great powers between the federal government and the states, that the federal government, created by the states, can take from the states the power they have always enjoyed and expressly reserved to them by the constitution, exclusive in the states. Hamilton himself never made such a claim."

Advocates of federal regulation concede, according to the report, that insurance is not commerce. The report discusses at great length the question of invading the constitutional rights of states in the matter of police powers, the conclusion being in accord with the holdings of the supreme court against such a proposition. The difficulty of administering federal regulations is emphasized as follows:

"What can congress act upon under its power to regulate interstate commerce? Congress cannot prevent the making of a contract of insurance between a company in New York and a resident of Oregon. After the contract is made, when will the powers of congress attach, and to what? The policy and premium are not merchandise. As the power of congress does not attach until the merchandise is in commercial transit, it could not become active until the policy and premium start on their journey and would terminate when the place of destination is reached, and the duty and power of congress would be to protect both in transit, and that is the limit of congressional power. This act of transportation does not enable federal power to reach corporations, and as federal power would not know when or how the policy or premium were to be transported and as it cannot annul the contract, it would have to be made a criminal offense, and an American citizen would have to be convicted of a crime for making a provision for his family."

SENATE.

Washington, March 21.—The entire day in the senate was devoted to consideration of the railroad rate bill. Calhoun began proceedings by putting an additional prohibition on corporations coming under the operation of the proposed law, from making campaign contributions, and he was immediately followed by his colleague, Bailey, who offered the amendment so long promised by him, and followed this action with a speech in which he explained that he would not now present the amendment but for the fact that Dolliver had referred to and criticized him in an interview. He indicated some displeasure over the interview, but exonerated Dolliver from discourtesy in the matter.

The Iowa senator disavowed any intention to reveal a senate secret, and the incident was closed pleasantly. Both Bailey and Dolliver made speeches reiterating their views on the rate question and they were followed by more or less extended remarks by Tillman, Patterson, Heyburn and Knox.

Bailey was interrupted in the middle of his speech by the announcement of his father's death, and immediately left the senate chamber.

SHIPERS NOT TO ESCAPE.

The interstate commerce commission to day gave out for publication the following notice:

"Upon reports to the commission that many shippers in and about the city of New York have been persistently underbidding and misrepresenting freight shipped by railroads from that city and other points in eastern territory, the commission has ordered an investigation and set the matter down for hearing at United States court rooms, New York city, on Friday, March 23, at 10:30 a. m. It is expected that some highly interest-

VIEWES GIVEN BY ROOSEVELT

TO REPRESENTATIVES OF ORGANIZED LABOR

Replied to Memorial of Executive Council of American Federation Urging Action on Demands for Legislation.

Washington, March 21.—Addressing representatives of organized labor who called upon him this afternoon, President Roosevelt has replied in an extended address to a memorial of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor urging action on various demands for legislation being made by organized labor in the interests of the country. The memorial dwelt particularly on the eight hour law and its enforcement on government works, immigration laws and especially Chinese exclusion laws.

The president expressed the opinion that the anti-injunction bill has no chance of passing, though he thought it an admirable measure and sincerely wished it would be put through. It is also necessary to have this power lodged in the courts, he said.

"During the four and a half years I have been president I do not remember an instance where the government has invoked the right of injunction against a combination of laborers. We have invoked it, certainly, a score of times against combinations of capital—I think possibly often. Thus, though we have secured the issuance of injunctions in a number of cases against capitalistic combinations, it has happened we have never tried to secure an injunction against a combination of labor. But, understand me, gentlemen, if I ever thought it necessary, if I thought a combination of laborers were doing wrong, I would apply for an injunction against them just as quick as against so many capitalists."

Referring to the eight hour law, the president declared himself emphatically in favor of it, for our own people, in our own country, but insisted that to attempt it on the Panama canal would be an absurdity. He also spoke concerning the situation on the canal in support of this declaration.

Speaking of the Chinese exclusion law, he said that instead of there being an influx of Chinese in this country there are fewer here now than there were at any previous time in the last thirty years. While opposing the admission of Chinese laborers, he declared he would do everything in his power for the educated and better class of Chinamen to come into this country and to secure for them good treatment when they come. He asked his hearers as good American citizens to support that policy. The president said he was opposed to the importation of laborers, under any form, and also against the admission of undesirable immigrants, but he did not think we could have too many of the best kind of immigrants.

As to the petitioning of congress by government employees, he said it would not be permitted; that it must be done through the heads of departments; that this applies to all branches of the government service and is necessary as a matter of discipline.

NEGRO RESCUED FROM MOB.

Port Worth, Texas, March 21.—John Howard, a negro, was rescued from a mob of farmers in Grayson county Monday night by a determined deputy sheriff, after they had built a fire to burn him to death. The negro was charged with making an attack on Mrs. P. A. Hicks, who lives in the Ambros community, and the woman escaped through the assistance of a dog on the premises. The negro fled, but was soon captured and preparations for the burning were completed, when Deputy Sheriff Leo Seegs appeared and effected a rescue. The negro has been placed in jail at Sherman.

KILLED UNDER SNOW PLOW.

Dayton, Ohio, March 21.—While operating a snow plow on the Dayton & Grey traction road at Chambersburg, six miles north of here yesterday, William Pumphreys, Bart Hoover and Gustavus Nicol were instantly killed in an accident. When running at a lively speed, the plow struck a horse that had become fastened on a bridge. The plow was overturned and the men were crushed underneath twelve tons of steel that had been placed on the car to weight it down.

CUMMINS' ANSWER

Des Moines, Iowa, March 21.—Governor Cummins to day answered the Gilliland resolution of inquiry respecting a charge made by the governor in his letter to the Republicans of Iowa, in effect that the railroad lobby had been working against the primary election bill. He states that he had not charged members of the legislature with being bribed or the railroad lobby with corrupting members; that nothing he has said could be tortured into that sort of meaning. But he insisted on the truthfulness of his charge that railroads of the state are interested in defeating real primary election legislation and have worked against the bill pending in the legislature.

HEARS OF FATHER'S DEATH.

Guthrie, Okla., March 21.—While Mrs. Ella Landenbach was on the witness stand here yesterday, on trial for her life, she was handed a telegram announcing the death of her aged father in Kansas. The witness faltered, but afterward went on with her evidence. She is charged with murdering M. L. Hall, aged 70, at Orlando, last June, following a quarrel because her hogs ate his mulberries. She pleads self defense. Two small children are with her in the court room.

GOVERNOR PATTON WORSE.

Columbus, Ohio, March 21.—Governor Patton's illness to day took a serious turn and his physicians were at his bedside until midnight. Dr. Watson said the governor was resting more comfortably to night. Governor Patton has been practically confined to his home ever since his inauguration Jan. 8 last.

NO EVIDENCE

Peoria Grand Jury Reported "No True Bill."

Peoria, March 21.—The grand jury which was specially instructed ten days ago by Judge Green to investigate the charges of bribery made against the agents of the sanitary board of Chicago, in connection with the recent trial of the $35,000 damage suit brought by Congressman Graff and Judge Curran, adjourned to day and reported "no true bill," adding that no evidence of value could be found.

NOT PLAYING DOUBLE GAME

ASSURANCE GIVEN GERMAN BY RUSSIA

Efforts Directed Toward Solution of Difficulties Between France and Germany Regarding Moroccan Affairs.

Berlin, March 21.—Count Von Ostensacken, Russian ambassador to Germany, called upon Chancellor Von Bulow this afternoon, handing over to him instructions dated March 19, from the Russian foreign office to Count Cassella, first Russian delegate to the Algiers conference. At the same time the Russian ambassador pointed out the incorrectness of the Paris Tapp's version of this instruction. The instruction says:

"This government thinks it is necessary to deny the statement representing that it is supporting the creation of a special police organization at Casa Blanca and opposing the French standpoint. This is untrue. In order to elude a false interpretation of this important question you will assure the French plenipotentiary of your willingness to assist regarding the police question at the mentioned harbor. At the same time the instruction shall be handed over to the powers represented at the conference in order to dissipate any suspicion that Russia is playing a double game. Though your efforts shall be to assist France's just demands, they shall be directed to the high aim, namely: Solution of the existing difficulties, considering at the same time the dignity of both parties."

NEGOTIATIONS PROCEEDING.

Cologne, March 21.—The Gazette to day prints an inspired Berlin dispatch saying negotiations are now proceeding between France and Germany regarding the Moroccan police inspectorship. Germany insists upon a highly important neutral inspector whose functions shall be so formulated that he can exercise a real influence upon the activity of police.

INSURANCE BILL.

Measure to be Reported to New York Legislature Regulating Mutual Companies.

Albany, N. Y., March 21.—The assembly committee on insurance, in executive session to night, voted to report favorably with amendments the assembly bill introduced by the joint special investigating committee, which would legislate out of office on Nov. 15th next all the directors and trustees of the mutual insurance companies and would nullify all proxies hitherto secured by the companies themselves, by Thomas W. Lawson or any other person on the committee. The bill affects "every domestic mutual life insurance corporation, whether incorporated by special act or under the general law," and provides that the annual election of every such company which under its charter or by-laws would be held "hereafter and prior to Nov. 15, 1906," shall be postponed and held on that date. All the present directors shall hold office until then, and until their successors are elected.

Decisions are to be held under the supervision of the state department of insurance, which is to appoint in each case at least three policy holders to act as inspectors of election. Boards of directors then elected must proceed forthwith to elect new officers, the terms of office of the old expiring upon the election. The qualification of these successors, the directors then elected are required by the bill to divide themselves into two classes, one thereupon to resign in one year term and the other to serve two years.

FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Partner of Late Rev. George Simmons of Peoria, Indicted.

Peoria, March 21.—Rev. Louis Kelly, the Baptist minister who was a partner with the late Rev. George Simmons in the defunct People's Savings bank, was indicted for embezzlement by the grand jury this afternoon. The indictment charges that Kelly received deposits on Feb. 5th, the day before Simmons committed suicide, when he knew that the bank was insolvent. A bench warrant was issued for Kelly, but he could not be found.

ALL GO FREE AS INDIVIDUALS

PACKERS GRANTED IMMUNITY BY COURT.

Indictments Against Corporations Are to Stand—Decision to That Effect Handed Down by Judge Humphrey.

Chicago, March 21.—All packers indicted by the federal grand jury last summer upon charges of being in a conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce were to day granted immunity from criminal prosecution under the indictment. While the individuals are to go free, indictments against the corporations of which some of the indicted individuals are members and others are employees, are to stand.

A decision to the above effect was handed down this afternoon by Judge Humphrey in the United States district court. Arguments in the case were concluded shortly after 3 o'clock and Judge Humphrey at once commenced the delivery of his opinion. It was oral and the judge spoke nearly an hour before giving the slightest indication of what his ultimate decision would be. He reviewed the case at length in all its bearings, cited all essential facts which had been brought out and concluded as follows:

"Under the law in this case, immunity is granted by the defendants will be sustained as to individuals, and denied as to corporations—the artificial persons—and the jury will find in favor of the government so far as the corporations are concerned, and against the government, as far as individuals are concerned."

Concerning the contention that packers volunteered the information secured by Garfield, Judge Humphrey said:

"It is contended that the defendants in this case were volunteers, because they bargained with Garfield at times, debated, resisted and gave less than he asked and withheld some things. The record does show that, but the fact remains that every approach was made by the government. Garfield made his demands and it does not seem to me that the defendants acted under compulsion under which they acted, that the defendants, after having considered the law, and after having decided that they had no legal right to resist, still debated with the commissioner in the hope of inducing him to take something less than he originally demanded. Garfield came to the defendants and held up before them the powers of his office. They did not go to him and volunteer anything. Now, since the defendants volunteered nothing, but gave only what was demanded by an officer who had the right to make the demand, and gave it in good faith under a sense of legal compulsion, I am of the opinion that they are entitled to immunity."

During the rendition of the decision the court room was crowded by defendants and numerous spectators. Edward Morris and Edward Swift were in court and both smiled happily when the decision was announced. J. Ogden Armour was not present, but some of the men prominent in the employ of Armour & Co., who were under indictment, were there and their joy was great. When the judge announced the decision they crowded together and shook hands in mutual congratulation.

Attorneys for the defendants were also highly pleased and when the decision had been announced they shook hands all around, and then hastened to the jury box to shake hands with the jurors, who had been excluded from the court room, during all arguments made in the case, and who returned a verdict in accordance with instructions of the court.

District Attorney Morrison, who has handled the case all along, with the exception of the argument by Attorney General Moody, and with bowed head for a short time after Judge Humphrey had concluded, and then walked over to the jury box and also shook hands with the jurors.

Immediately following the dismissal of the jury, District Attorney Morrison raised the question of date for the trial of the corporation. He asked that the case be set for trial, and that it be commenced within a few weeks. This was met with a storm of protest from attorneys for the packers, who insisted they would be unable to prepare the case in so short a time, pleading the number of witnesses which it would be necessary to bring to Chicago, the strain of the present trial and various other reasons. After some discussion Judge Humphrey directed the five lawyers to agree among themselves as to the date and notify him of their decision next week.

It is expected that the total number of witnesses in this case when it begins will number at least 600. The attorneys for the packers declared to day, when asking for postponement of the trial, that their witnesses would number 500, and the government has already said it would have 300 or more.

THE ISLE OF PINES TREATY

DISCUSSED IN EXECUTIVE SESSION.

No Action Taken by Senators in Matter—Railroad Rate Bill Considered—Other Washington News.

Washington, March 21.—The senate in executive session to day had under consideration the Isle of Pines treaty, but after a general discussion lasting more than an hour, the legislative session was resumed without action having been taken. The treaty was called up by Foraker, who drew up the majority report for the committee on foreign relations, recommending ratification of the convention. This was opposed by Morgan, author of the minority report, and Penrose, who represented the interests of a number of residents who went there from Pennsylvania. They took the position that if the treaty was ratified and the island ceded to Cuba, the interests of Americans of the island would be jeopardized.

Spencer and Bacon have agreed informally upon an amendment to the treaty which is designed to give the islanders local autonomy, but this has not yet been offered.

Several senators objected to the article which sets forth that the island was ceded to Cuba in payment of coaling stations in Cuba. It was agreed that this article was not vital and that it could as well be eliminated.

Senator Teller took the position that the United States never had a legitimate claim to the island and that the purpose of the treaty was merely to give a quit claim to a title over which there was some dispute in the minds of certain people as to property in which this government never had an interest.

CHINESE UPRISING

Views of Rev. Mr. Corbett, Who Has Been Missionary in China Forty-three Years.

St. Paul, March 21.—Rev. Hunter Corbett, who has been a Presbyterian missionary in China for forty-three years, is in St. Paul, speaking of the Chinese uprising he said:

"It is no more a phantom and may be an awful reality. If a demonstration occurs it will have for its purpose the extermination of and siding of the country of all foreigners. The Chinese have taken offense at the treatment of their people who come to this country by American ships. The very best people of their race, they say, are often treated on the basis of the province of Tsin and are losing claims to territory twenty miles long. All inhabitants are treated as German subjects. On the southeast the French are extending their provinces upward from China, and England is extending its possessions around Hong Kong and Wei Jai Wei. Of course all this has a tendency to fret and spread the general discontent of the Chinese race."

OREGON IS DISABLED.

OLD PEOPLE CONSTANT SUFFERERS IN WINTER

Most old people are great sufferers in winter. They are seldom free from pains or ailments of some description, because they are not as able to withstand the severity of the climate, with its damp, changing weather, as are their younger, more vigorous companions. Cold weather starts the old aches and pains; they suffer with chilly sensations, cold extremities, poor appetite, digestion, nervousness, sleeplessness and other afflictions peculiar to old age. With advancing years the strength and vitality of the system begin to decline. The heart action is weak and irregular, the blood becomes thin and sluggish in its circulation, and often some old blood taint that has lain dormant in the system for years begins to manifest itself. A wart or pimple becomes a troublesome sore or ulcer, skin diseases break out, or the slight rheumatic pains felt in younger days now cause sleepless nights and hours of agony. There is no reason why old age should not be healthy and free from disease if the blood is kept pure and the system strong, and this can be done with S. S. S. It is a medicine that is especially adapted to old people, because it is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, selected for their purifying, healing and building-up properties, and is very mild and gentle in its action. S. S. S. warms and reinvigorates the sluggish blood so that it moves with more rapidity, and clears it of all impurities and poisons. As this rich, healthy stream circulates through the body every part of the system is built up, the appetite and digestion improve, the heart action increases and the diseases and discomforts of old age pass away. S. S. S. cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Skin Diseases, Sores and Ulcers, and all troubles arising from diseased blood.

TWO VETERANS MEET

Interesting Reminiscences of War Times.

James Hedges, of Missouri, visiting here for a short time, and whom reference was made in an article recently, had the great pleasure of an interview with Gen. B. H. Grierson, of this city, and the two spent a good part of a delightful forenoon together talking over the scenes and times of days gone by. The last time they met it was under somewhat different circumstances, which neither will soon forget. Private Hedges had been sent a long distance over a muddy road with important dispatches to be delivered to Gen. Grierson as soon as possible. Arriving at headquarters he was placed with southern red mud, which every veteran who served in the south knows is sticky and horrid when once it is fastened to the clothing. As a matter of course he didn't present a very attractive appearance and when he came up to the general and saluted the commander asked in his abrupt manner and with his usual forcible language who Hedges was. The latter was just as abrupt and forcible for he knew what he was about and told his mission presenting the dispatches. Gen. Grierson, however, still felt that the etiquette of the army had been somewhat violated and proceeded to remark in the same line whereupon Hedges retorted with sulphurous expletives and the narrative of his trip in order to get the important message delivered promptly. In fact it developed into a match of vehement invectives and was a drawn battle and at the end Gen. Grierson was satisfied that there was no cause to reprimand the faithful private and said he would do.

Gen. Frank Cockrell, afterward United States senator from Missouri, was in command of rebel forces at Allatoona Pass and was a brave, hard fighter. Long after the conflict Mr. Hedges was in a town in Missouri where Gen. Cockrell was to make a political speech and remembering him stepped up and addressed him. Gen. Cockrell, of course, didn't recognize the man before him and asked who he was.

"I think we were together at Allatoona Pass," was the reply.

"Were you in my command?" the general asked.

"Well, no; not exactly. I was on the other side."

"In what command?"

"Company E, 7th Illinois."

"Company E, 7th Illinois! Well, you fellows and two other western regiments did give us — that day," and in another instant the old general did actually embrace the warm-hearted man before him and remarked to the bystanders:

"Here's a man who belonged to a lot of the worst and hardest fighting in all the world. That is rather strong language but I mean it as a compliment," and again the big arms went around the astonished Hedges.

"Now come down to the hotel and eat with me, and you've got to sit right beside me, too."

But, general, how do you know I belonged to the 7th Illinois?"

"Know it? Guess I can tell an impostor from a true man; come on."

"But you are now a candidate for a Democratic office and I'm a strong Republican."

"I don't care — what you are politically; you were the best fighters in the army and that's my kind," and the two had a pleasant time together and in his speech that afternoon the general referred feelingly to the incident.

After the address the general was remarking to some friends that he had met a federal veteran and added: "We thought we could fight and I know I had a splendid command and one which we regarded equal to several times as many yankees, but that day we had 8,500 and the yankees 1,550 and they licked — out of us."

It was hard work for Mr. Hedges to get away from the general and a warm friendship at once sprang up between them. Some time afterward Mr. Hedges had occasion to go to Warrensburg to see Senator Cockrell on some business and found him laid up with a sprained ankle. He made known his errand and was assured of the hearty cooperation of the statesman and was about to depart.

"Where are you going?" said the general.

"Back to the hotel; I can't get away now till morning."

"Then you'll stay here."

"But I am not here sponging; my bill is already paid at the hotel."

"I'll send my son down and get it back."

"But general; I feel a delicacy about staying here under the circumstances and besides, you know, I am a Republican and not on your side."

"I don't care for that. I have a large house here and plenty of room and I wish it distinctly understood that no man who belonged to the 7th Illinois stays at a hotel in Warrensburg."

"Then I'll have to surrender."

"Indeed you will."

and nothing more was said about it and the two had a pleasant time talking over the scenes and incidents of the war.

It was during the closing days of the unpleasantness and immediately after the boys in blue had such an special antipathy to the men who fled from the war. The 7th was on the way home and were getting woefully hungry and thirsty, so they wired ahead to a certain town to have several gallons of coffee and some other things ready for them on the arrival of the train. In the place there was but one hotel and the landlord of the establishment sneeringly replied that he had no coffee for "Lincoln hirelings." Unfortunately the messenger repeated the words to the officer commanding and the men got hold of it and, sad to relate, they proceeded to that hotel and at once dismantled it, scattering the furniture and bedclothes all along the road. It was of course war times and the men didn't stop to differentiate between citizens of the north and south. At the next place they found a warm welcome and plenty of good coffee and other articles dear to the veterans who had subsisted so long on army fare.

LYNNVILLE

Mr. Stanley and Miss Frank Gordon, teachers of our schools here, were in attendance at the Morgan County Teachers' association meeting in Jacksonville Friday.

George Hillier of Alexander visited with friends here Saturday.

Miss Winifred Stainforth, who is a Jacksonville high school student, was a home visitor Friday and Saturday. Carl Gordon of Illinois college also made a short visit with home folks last week.

C. G. Jones and daughters, Lilla and Marian, of Antioch, spent Sunday with Mr. Jones' parents.

F. T. Gordon and son Rufus left a week ago for Seattle, Wash.

A class of six in the Lynnville school took the central examination at the appointed time and all passed.

Glenn Shirliff drove a lot of hogs of his own feeding to Riggsport last week and shipped them to the St. Louis market.

A party from here attended the Culpeper meeting Saturday evening. They expressed themselves as having enjoyed the services. They were especially impressed by the singing.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Shirliff are mourning the loss of their infant daughter, whose little life went out Sunday night. The hearts of their friends go out to them in their bereavement. Funeral arrangements were not announced up to time of writing.

Owing to the bad condition of the roads the mail carrier did not put in an appearance here Monday. We trust he may be able to make his round Tuesday.

Mrs. Vanstone has rented her farm and began moving her household goods to Franklin last week, where she expects to reside for a time.

Winter lingers in the lap of spring, and mad March is certainly breaking his record in the way of cold and snow storms.

The roads are almost impassable here and when Old Sol dissolves the white blanket which now covers the ground there will be no bottom to them for a while.

Considering the condition of the roads, church services were fairly well attended Sunday.

Miss Minnie Campbell's school term at Timber Edge school house closed Friday.

Wylie Todd sold thirty hogs this week, for which he received 6 cents per pound.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

(From the Chicago News.)

PEOPLE WE KNOW

They Are Jacksonville People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts; people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Capt. F. C. Taylor, of 827 East State street, says: "Those who have any trouble whatever from their kidneys and wish to suffer as they go through life should avoid taking Doan's Kidney Pills. They effected a cure in my case and I can cheerfully recommend them to my friends who have similar ailments."

PEOPLE OF THE DAY

The Standard Oil Investigation. As a result of a recent decision of the supreme court of Missouri it is believed by Attorney General Herbert S. Hadley that the New York supreme court will order H. H. Rogers to answer certain questions put to him by Mr. Hadley at the recent oil hearings in New York city, when Rogers declined to answer on advice of counsel.

The decision of the Missouri supreme court is sweeping in its nature. In substance the court says that when corporations come into Missouri to do business they implicitly agree to obey the laws of the state, and they must obey them.

In his conduct of the Standard Oil investigation Mr. Hadley, who is but thirty-four years of age, has shown himself to be a man of great force and ability. Before his election to the office of attorney general of Missouri he practiced law in Kansas City.

Names That Don't Fit.

There are two men in congress, one in the senate and the other in the house, who might be pardoned for going into court and asking to have their names changed. They are Senator Dick of Ohio and Representative Schneebell of Pennsylvania. Dick is not thick, as his name says; but, on the contrary, he is very thin. Mr. Schneebell's name signifies a "little beak"—that is, a diminutive nose. Schneebell is the affectionate diminutive of the word meaning beak, so the name was not given his ancestors in a mean spirit. His nose is one of the large ones to be found among members of the house. Senator Long of Kansas fits his name, but Representative Kline of Pennsylvania, the only Democrat from the commonwealth, is not little, his name to the contrary notwithstanding.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Anecdote of King Alfonso.

Many were the stories told of King Alfonso's childhood. One shows so much the characteristic determination of his later years that it is worth repeating. While still a child in the nursery his governess rebuked him for putting his knife in his mouth. "Gentlemen never eat like that," she said. "But I am a king," remarked the child.

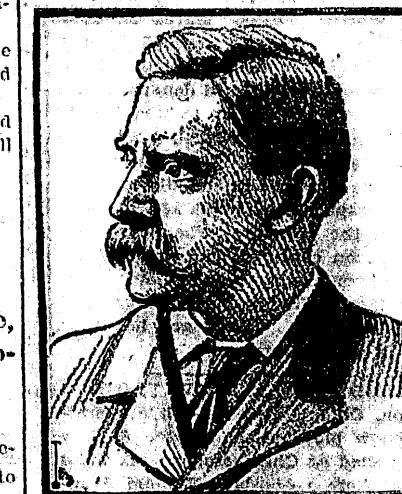

"Kings still less put knives in their mouths," said the governess.

"This king does," was the reply.

Mutual Life Investigation.

Stuyvesant Fish, president of the Illinois Central railroad, who was forced off the board of trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance company because he insisted on a thorough investigation of its affairs, has reentered the fight as leader of a protective committee of Mutual Life policy holders, which will represent this country, Canada, Great Britain, France and Germany.

The purpose of the international committee is to drive from power the present management, which is regarded as a duplicate in disguise of the McCurdy administration. It is also proposed to bring suits against every one of the trustees and officers of the company who was involved in the McCurdy scandals and who escaped exposure and punishment by reason of the obstructive tactics employed while Stuyvesant Fish was a member of the Trustadale investigating committee.

At least eight suits for restitution, involving a total of $2,700,000, will be instituted as soon as the international committee gets into working shape at a not far distant date. It is the purpose to move swiftly and without regard for the prominence of the men who have enriched themselves at the expense of the policy holders.

Stuyvesant Fish is a son of Hamilton Fish, who was secretary of state in Grant's cabinet. His wife is a leader in New York society and is noted for the splendor and originality of her entertainments.

The Japanese drank 3,800,000 gallons of beer last year. Yet Germany is supposed to have sympathized with Russia nearly all through the war.

Dr. Wiley, the government chemist, has shown that he can make a glass of Scotch whiskey in five minutes without the aid of Scotland, barley or a charred keg. Yet this man is not a millionaire.

The vice president of Cuba has resigned because he discovered that the office was purely ornamental. We have never heard of an American vice president or any other office holder resigning for that reason.

Such of late years has been the increased demand for pennies and nickels in the trade of the country that the house at Washington recently passed a bill to raise the coinage of pennies and nickels from $50,000 to $200,000 a year.

The common belief that the average of human life in this country is growing longer, is flatly contradicted, says William E. Curtis, by a prominent insurance agent in New York, who shows that the average length of life here is growing shorter, or at least on a standstill.

President Roosevelt, alarmed by reports of the frightful prevalence of tuberculosis among government employees, has issued orders for a rigid overhauling of the departments with a view to rescuing present victims of the disease and putting a stop to the evil generally.

George W. Perkins rides daily to and from his home at Riverside, N. Y., to his office in the city in an automobile that cost him $23,000. It contains a wash stand, toilet cases, mirrors, electric lights, patent heaters, etc., in short all the comforts of a well furnished home.

America, by claiming a sovereignty over lands in the far north, in the Hudson Bay country, where the flag was planted by her explorers, faces a clash with Canada which is likely to result in valuable fishing concessions to citizens of the United States even if it does not extend the country's territory.

There are in America to-day more than 200 fraternal beneficial orders with a combined membership of over 2,000,000, who are protected to the extent of about seven billion, five hundred million dollars, and have distributed benefits to disabled members amounting to more than eight hundred and twenty-five million dollars.

There can be no question about the economic propriety of Secretary Shaw's act in announcing that he will at once deposit $10,000,000 of public funds in existing depository banks. The secretary states that the government looked up this amount during February. When the treasury merely restores to circulation what it takes out of circulation it avoids disturbing the money market, as it ought to do. When it puts additional money in circulation it disturbs the money market, as it ought not to do.

A great many papers in the country have naturally said some harsh things about the Denver & Rio Grande railroad managers for keeping that poor operator at work so long that he fell asleep and let two trains come together with such dire results but it now develops that the accident on the Rio Grande at Florence, Colo., was caused by an operator asleep. The operator had not been on duty as long as alleged in the early accounts, but had worked for the night man without getting permission from his superior officers to do so, and for that reason had been on duty too long without sleep. The operator was not overworked by the company, but was tired out because of his own violation of the company rules.

The Washington correspondent of the Springfield, Mass., Republican says it has leaked out that the president's choice for his successor in 1908 is Speaker Joseph G. Cannon. President Roosevelt is said to have canvassed the merits of a number of leaders and to have come to the conclusion that the speaker contains more strong running qualities than any other one. The harmony that exists between the president and the speaker on the rate bill, the Philippine tariff bill and the statchood bill is given as proof of the friendly feeling between the two. The truth if known would probably show that the president is not taking any active hand in the naming of his successor but if he should have a personal preference for Speaker Cannon and that fact were known it might count as a considerable factor in determining the choice. It is generally conceded that Vice President Fairbanks has aspirations but Speaker Cannon certainly has the advantage in long and arduous public training and at the present time has far more prestige than the vice president. If Mr. Cannon has any thought of entering the race Illinois would certainly be with him as against any other man thus far named or liable to be named for the office.

Everybody's Magazine: In Germany the government owns the railroads and operates them through labyrinthine miles and miles of red tape. In England railroad travel is a form of devotion to be undertaken alone, if possible and always in sad silence and meditation. In Germany it is a state function; you ride by the permission of the kaiser and the government, and care is taken that you shall not forget your obligations. The cars, the stations, and the platforms are adorned with innumerable notices and warnings, forbidding you to do one thing and commanding you to do another. You must walk here and must not walk there; you must show your ticket at the gate and again to the conductor before the train starts. You must not enter into disputes with the ticket agents or trainmen, because they are government officers and to quarrel with them is a form of lese majeste. If you travel third class you must be content to be herded as cattle are herded at western shipping stations, and with as little courtesy. You will see the class lines drawn very clearly before you in the behavior of the employees, who uniformly hold that persons of rank and consideration travel first class, men and women second class, beasts third class. You will see very curious exhibitions of autocratic authority and of objectionable servility from the same officers, and you will sometimes feel your blood tingle at the difference.

The examining physicians for the Equitable Life Insurance company suffer a slight reduction in examination fee under Morton's recent cutting of the expense account, which is reported to be saving the company $1,000,000 per year. They now receive $3 for examining an applicant instead of $5 under the Hyde-Alexander regime.

EDITOR CHILDREN'S FRIEND.

Jacksonville (Ill.) Man Took Over 400 of Them to St. Louis.
Samuel W. Nichols, editor of the Jacksonville Journal, has probably made more persons happy through his benevolence than any other man in America, says a dispatch from Jacksonville, Ill. He might have been a rich man. As it is, he is prosperous, although he gives a large part of his income away.

He delights in making others happy. That was why he recently put 400 Jacksonville school children on a train and took them to St. Louis. He paid all the expenses of the trip, provided the lunches and supplied the car fare for the tour of Shaw's garden, Forest park and the retail and wholesale districts of the city. It was a glorious outing for the little ones, 90 per cent of whom had never been out of Jacksonville before. It is a frequent occurrence for Mr. Nichols to take his little friends on excursions.

"None of my little neighbors shall want for all the joys of life, as I did," he says. "They shall have all the pleasure I can give them. I had no pleasures in childhood. I had to go to work before I was ten years of age. I was driving a team when I was twelve. My mother was poor and could not give me the things she desired. I am not rich, but I have a little to spare now and then, and the children get it. I do not know how to squander money. It takes very little for my needs, and all that is left over I give to the children. To see them happy does me good. What a vast sight of downright, simple pure, genuine happiness is missed by the men who hoard their gold, when, with it, they might scatter so many smiles."

Mr. Nichols has aided over half a hundred women to get an education. Many years ago he conceived the idea of establishing a playground for the children of the place, and a couple of years ago he provided such a place at a cost of $10,000.

Last year, during the world's fair, Mr. Nichols brought 400 children to St. Louis and paid their way until they had seen the whole of the big show.

Toward the holidays Mr. Nichols is especially busy. He goes to the teachers in the public schools and the overseer of the poor and gets the names of all the poor children in the city. Then he buys dolls by the hundreds, candy by the hundredweight, oranges by the box, knives by the dozens, games, books and everything that delights the childish heart and then distributes them in a manner to attract as little attention as possible.

Mr. Nichols is very plain and unassuming, almost careless regarding his personal appearance.

Cocaine in Washington.

Thirty or more years ago drug habits were relatively unknown, says a report to the house of representatives. Cocaine was then not yet discovered. Today it has been shown that it is possible in the city of Washington to telephone to a certain drug store for a "headache powder" and receive by special messenger a package of cocaine.

ELECTION ENDS IN SQUABBLE

Members of Company L Had Anything But Harmony When Ballot for Captain Was Taken Wednesday Night—Many Ask for Discharge Papers.

Factionalism developed to quite a large extent in the election of officers held at the Company L armory Wednesday evening. An election was called for the purpose of electing a captain and a first lieutenant. Second Lieutenant W. H. Parrish and Dr. A. H. Kennibrew were candidates for the office of captain. When the result was announced dissatisfaction manifested itself. Claims were made that the ballots had not been properly counted and that the tellers represented only one side. Two different reports were submitted at the Journal office. One declaring that the vote on captain stood 27 for Kennibrew and 22 for Parrish, while the other report declared that 40 out of 49 present had declared themselves for Parrish and declared they so voted. Both reports agreed that C. W. Tinsley was elected first lieutenant.

It was rumored after the election that many of the members of the company had asked for their discharge papers and that the number was so great that such action might result in the dissolution of the organization.

SELECTING SEED CORN NOW.

The farmers' busy season is close at hand. There are several odd jobs of fence repairing, manure hauling, etc., to be attended to before plowing. When oats sowing and corn planting begin almost everything else must wait. There yet remains just a few days of comparative leisure in which to re-select seed corn and test its germinating quality.

We have had no hard freezing weather this winter and the disposition may be to just take it for granted that the seed corn is all right and needs no testing. But it has been pointed out that it is necessary to know more about the vitality than simply the fact that the corn will grow. Will the kernel send out strong quick-growing sprouts both up and down? Is it vigorous of growth? These are important questions and they can not be answered by physical examination—only by the sprouting test. In a lot of seed corn that tests pretty well as a whole there are many poor ears that may be rejected and the percent of germination thus raised several points. The only way to discover the ears to plant and the ones to reject is to test each ear, and it does not take long to do it for the amount of seed needed on the ordinary farm.

And wouldn't it be worth while to try planting at least one field this spring with kernels very carefully graded for uniformity of size? Mr. Winter and others have told just how to do this and the advantage of an even drop and hence a better stand thereby secured. No planter can be expected to drop kernels of different sizes and shapes as regularly as it will drop uniform kernels.

Now right away is about the last chance to do this extra work. A fever of haste will set in when the teams get into the field for the spring work, and there will be little time or disposition then to take up new things. Do it now.

Mrs. Scott Carter and children have gone to attend the funeral which will be held at Spring Valley this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HOW TO BUILD A HOT BED.

The national bureau of horticulture makes some suggestions to the amateur gardener who is also a carpenter on a more ambitious method than that of growing his early spring flowers in boxes kept in the house and has this to say of how a hot bed may be built at small expense.

Old window sash, or a single sash purchased cheaply, and four boards one inch thick and one and one-half feet wide may be put together to form the hot bed, the boards being used for the walls. Warm stable manure should be put in the bottom from one-half to three-fourths of a foot deep, and firmly pressed down. The bed should be well drained. Light soil, to a depth of one or two inches should be spread over the manure and after one or two days, when the temperature is cooled down to 70 or 80 degrees, the bed is ready for use.

The plants, in pots or boxes, should be put in the bed. The boxes may be prepared as for indoor use, with ordinary garden soil at the bottom, and lighter soil on top. Large holes should be left to drain the box. The fine seed should be sprinkled over it, and the coarse seed sown in drills, or pressed down into the soil, and covered with a thin layer of earth. The soil should be gently sprinkled with water as soon as the seed is planted, and kept moist, without becoming soggy.

The hot bed should be shaded from the hot sun, but there should be plenty of light. The cover of the bed should be kept on until the seedlings have started to make good growth. On warm spring days the plants should be given fresh air by raising the sash slightly.

RAILROAD NEWS NOTES

Scarcity of Coal Causes Roads to Take Summary Measures to Protect Themselves—Items of Interest—Shop Notes.

The largest work ever undertaken in the installation of block signals has been authorized by the management of the Harriman system of railroads. E. H. Harriman instructed Julius Kritttschmitt, director of maintenance and operation of his roads, to begin work immediately with a view to installing 2,342 miles of automatic electric block signals, which will cost nearly $3,000,000. The signals are to be placed over the entire line of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific roads between Omaha and San Francisco, a distance of 1,800 miles, and also between San Francisco and Los Angeles, a distance of 542 miles. The estimated cost of the blocks is between $1,700 and $1,200 per mile of road. The most expensive system of electric signaling extant is to be used, and is of a character to insure the greatest safety possible under existing conditions of railroad operation in the United States.

Many car loads of steam heat radiators have already been distributed throughout, and the growth of the demand for same is shown by the fact that the American Radiator company of Litchfield, who are the largest makers in the world, will ship through here to day over the Burlington route a solid train of twenty-five cars destined for Omaha. This train will pass through Jacksonville about 1:15 a. m.

Announcement has been made by L. M. Gruber, general manager of the Burlington lines east of the Missouri river, that this company will reconstruct the Hannibal bridge, build extensive freight terminals in St. Louis, and a new freight house in the West bottoms during 1906.

The Chicago & Alton and Van-burgh lines, it is said, have decided to withdraw from their terminal arrangements with the Peoria & Pekin union and are planning to build a bridge over the Illinois river at Peoria.

The "Railroad Gazette" of recent date says: The Alton, Jacksonville & Peoria railroad has been incorporated in Illinois to build a railroad from Alton to Peoria, with branch lines to Grafton and Jerseyville. A franchise for fifty years through Alton has been granted and work will begin soon. The incorporators are L. W. Booker, of Jerseyville, Ill. and Robert Curdie, of Alton, Ill.

Joseph V. Murray, a fireman, went to sleep in an engine cab in the Peoria & Eastern roundhouse at Danville recently. When employees awoke and attempted to get him out, he became enraged, pulled the throttle wide open and ran the engine through the side of the building, a brick structure, damaging the machine considerably. Murray was fined for disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property and sent to jail.

The railroads of the west are now engaged in a struggle to get coal cars and locomotives not overlooked, in some instances, in order to get hold of means to move the fuel. Coal is coal just now, and the road that does not have a reserve supply during the coming season will be up against a very serious proposition. As a result, all the roads are trying to grab as many cars as they can. Where such confiscation occurs the roads making the seizure pays the road owning the cars the usual rate for usage, but this does not satisfy. Early last week in Springfield the C. & St. L. grabbed hold of a string of C. & A. coal cars and ran them into a mine on the former road. The Alton could not help itself, but was compelled to look on and smile, figuratively speaking. Possession is nine points of the law and the roads with the most nerve are getting the larger number of cars. The Wabash has been notified by the Northwestern, Burlington and Pere Marquette that the three roads will not deliver any coal cars, possibly for fear of confiscation. There was a heavy movement of coal on the Alton again yesterday and last night and a large consignment is looked for to day and the closing days of the week.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

How to Make Magic Ink That Disappears When Rubbed.

Boys and girls sometimes amuse themselves with what is called "invisible ink," a fluid that makes no more color on paper than water does, but which becomes visible at once if you expose it to heat. An ink of that kind is a great curiosity to persons who have never before seen it, but a greater curiosity still is an ink that may be quickly made to disappear by rubbing it. To make this fluid get a little starch (just the common kind used by the laundress) and mix it with water until it becomes of about the consistency of cream. Then to it add a few drops of tincture of iodine, and it is ready for use.

Dip your pen into it and write a few words on ordinary paper. The writing will be of a dark brown color and will dry very quickly. It will look exactly like brown ink, and when you tell your friends that you are going to make the writing disappear simply by rubbing it over it they will probably look incredulous, for it has a permanent appearance, just as the black ink of a letter has.

But rub it and every trace of the writing will vanish as quickly as if your hand had magic in it.

A Clever Trick.
Half fill a glass with pure clear water. Drop into the water the newest, brightest twenty-five cent piece you can find and cover the top of the glass with a plate.

Then invert the combination so that the glass stands upside down in the plate. Do this as quickly and as deftly as possible, so that the water may not escape from the glass.

Here is where the mystery comes in: A twenty-five cent piece appears to be floating on top of the water, while another one seems to be resting on the bottom in the plate. In place of one piece of money it looks as if you had two.

The illusion is caused by the phenomenon known as the refraction of light.

The Little Darling.

Some flowers are universal favorites. Of these the mignonette is one. Its original home was north Africa, from which it found its way to Italy and then to Paris. Here Lord Bateman met it in 1742 and, being enamored of it, brought some seeds to England, where he was thus its introducer. Delighted with its unassuming look and choice fragrance, he called it mignonette, or "little darling." The strange thing is that, though this word is French, the plant is not known by it in France. In that country it is styled Le Reseda odorata, which is merely the French translation of its scientific name, Reseda odorata.

THE BARN OWL.

This owl should be protected, for it fulfills the highest degree of a bird to man. One of the best methods of studying the food habits of the barn owl is by examining the disgorged pellets, which are composed of the undigested parts of their food. Those which I have examined have been composed almost entirely of the remains of mice, rats and moles. In parts of California, where this owl is plentiful, it has so persistently fed upon the gopher as to become a prominent factor in holding this destructive rodent in check. In the south the cotton rats is quite destructive, and according to the eminent authorities, Audubon and Bachman, the barn owl renders good service in destroying these rats.—Silas A. Lottridge, in March Outdoors.

USHERS' BENEFIT

"It's Up to You, John Henry," Presented at Grand Before Large Audience—Theatrical Oddity.

"It's Up to You, John Henry," is the title of a theatrical presentation staged at the Grand last evening that affords an interesting study. It is hard to tell to just what particular part of the dramatic category it belongs. It is a laugh producer, nevertheless, and as an usher's benefit attraction drew a large audience. The situations, many of them are the most absurd ever conceived by a playwright. Charles Grapewin, as "John Henry," is the pivot upon which the whole play turns, and, although dilemmas by the score present themselves for solution, with the aid of his pal, E. C. Gillespie, as "Bunch Jefferson," he manages to come clear of them all. Emergencies are his long suit and the fun of the play finds its expression in the maneuvers of "John Henry" to extricate himself and pal from predicaments into which they are perpetually finding themselves. There is the usual romance for the sake of preserving their complacency, Henry is forced to play the part of fiance to the sweetheart of his pal.

Two jealous uncles, easy marks, both of them, are vehicles for a goodly portion of the fun.

The piece is a musical and comedy melange and the music and songs are catchy.

The first scene is laid in New York and the office of the Hotel Manhattan is where the action takes place.

The second act reveals "Dove's Nest Villa," which proves to be a source of troubles galore in which the uncles, the sweethearts of John and his pal, and a countless figure quite prominently. An entanglement here makes it quite imperative that a burglary be committed and as usual "Henry" furnishes the idea and "Jefferson" the execution. "Bunch" does a poor job and after a narrow escape finds himself at "Got Off" junction, where the other characters of the play gradually appear and the curtain is rung down with the entire cast going "Down the line with John Henry."

The comedy is well mounted and Mr. Grapewin is an actor of strength. He has surrounded him a very capable cast and their work was at all times good.

The St. Cecilia Quartette were well received and a duo song and dance skit also won the hearty applause it deserved.

It is understood that the seven ushers will receive as their share of the receipts after deducting the cost of bringing the company here, and usual expenses, $40 apiece.

His friends in this city will be glad to learn of his success in business and will wish him continued success in his new undertaking.

President Roosevelt informed the delegation he would be unable to participate, as he had determined several months ago not to accept further invitations which would necessitate extensive travel.
